CHOOSING THE RIGHT JOB: LIONS COOPERATING

\(source\)

Lions often hunt animals that are much bigger than they are. So, lions have to work together to hunt so that they can feed their group, called a pride.

Each lion has a special job during the hunt. They train for this job from the time they are cubs by watching the older lions. The hunt is most successful when each lion can perform her special job that matches her skills.

Directions: You are making a movie, and you are in charge of choosing a job for each lion. The movie will be most successful if the lions can do the job that matches their particular skills.

Look at the descriptions of the lions' special skills on the next page, and decide which job would be the best fit for each lion. Write the letter matching the lion you choose on the line underneath the job positions below, and explain why you chose each lion for that particular job.
